The investment idea "The trade war for Boeing: good or bad and how we can make money from it!" did not get a start for development. In fact, Boeing shares did not accelerate the decline, having received an incentive to correct the general renewal of optimism on the stock exchanges.

The general dynamics of these shares remains downward and is limited by a downtrend.

The downward trading channel for Boeing shares is likely to continue given the existing trading risks and signs of a slowdown in the global economy. At the same time, 365.00-350.00 marks act as a significant reversal zone, from which we can expect the formation of a reversal and the resumption of decline.
